LETTER FROM THE EDITORS

Hello ABSA,

We hope everyone had a great start to the school year! We are excited to be your new Informer Editors for this year. If you are one of the few who did not receive Email harassment from us or met us in ABSA, our names are Connie Han, Mark Wu, and Tiffany Leong.

We hope you enjoy our first edition of the year. As you grace through the pages to find your pretty faces, you will find that we included some old things mixed with some new. Be sure to look out for the company spotlights in the next issue. Good luck with everything this year!

Best,

Connie, Mark, & Tiffany

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS

Dear new members, old members, prospective members, and sponsors:

Welcome to the Asian Business Students Association here at the UT McCombs School of Business!

I am very excited to serve as your President for the 2009-2010 academic year, and I know this year will be another great one for ABSA. Last year, we were named the "Most Outstanding Organization" and "Best Professional Organization" on campus by the UT Leadership and Ethics Institute, and I am committed to holding ABSA to those high standards.

Part of what makes ABSA so great is that we have so much to offer our members. Through our strong business roots, you can gain professional development, leadership skills, and numerous advantages that will boost you above other students in starting out your career. Make use of our relationships with leading companies and our network of members who have worked in diverse industries and firms.

Most importantly, ABSA will give you amazing friends who will be a part of your life beyond just your time here at UT. Our numerous socials, family events, volunteering, company field trips, and other events will help you develop ties with other awesome ABSA members so, go out and meet people!

Additionally, ABSA is more than just professional. It is more than just social. It is more just philanthropic. We are professional, social, and philanthropic all in one amazing organization. For that matter, I urge everyone to get involved in all of ABSA, not just one single aspect. ABSA has so much to offer in so many different areas, so don't limit yourself.

To our sponsors, I would like to extend our gratitude for your generous support of ABSA. Your continued involvement with our organization has helped us grow to become one of the premier organizations on campus. Thank you for the support you have given us, and I hope to continue developing strong partnerships with ABSA.

On behalf of the officer panel, we are honored to serve you this upcoming year. Our goal as a panel is to create an open and inviting atmosphere that fosters member involvement and development. We will be working hard to achieve that goal so I know this year will be another awesome year for ABSA!

Best regards,
Timothy Lee
President 09-10

2009-2010 OFFICERS

TIMOTHY LEE
PRESIDENT

Hometown: Sugar Land, TX
Major: BHP/MPA
Year: 3rd

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

Disposable contacts. My eyes are really bad. Thank god for contacts! With glasses I wouldn't be able to just lie down in the middle of class and still pay attention. Plus, I would have to take off my glasses if I wanted to put my head down which is annoying.

What is your concept of a fruitful day?

A fruitful day will be getting a lot of homework done while leaving time for the gym. Then, going back to my place and eating some good home-cooked food. This never really happens, but that's okay.

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a room full of people, what would it be?

Jay Chou - Piao Yi. That song was written for the Initial D movie which has cars, and I love cars. In general though, I think it's just a cool song about drifting on mountain roads in Japan written in a language I like to learn, Chinese.

CHARLES LAI
EXECUTIVE VP

Hometown: Plano, TX
Major: BHP/Marketing
Year: 3rd

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

HTC Hero. I have a short attention span and I'm always looking for something more interesting.

What is your concept of a fruitful day?

If I can go to sleep at a reasonable hour and get a solid eight hours of sleep. That means I had a fruitful day.

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a room full of people, what would it be?

"Don't Trust Me" - 3OH!3. I'm a compulsive liar. The truth is usually not very exciting.

MOLLY SUN
PROFESSIONAL VP

Hometown: Spring, TX
Major: BHP/MPA
Year: 3rd

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

My blackberry! Calling, emailing, games, calendar, etc. <3

What is your concept of a fruitful day?

Accomplished everything on my agenda, and accomplished timely
Had time for God
Had time to hang out with friends
Had time to relax by myself
Played with my bunny Mian Hua

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a room full of people, what would it be?

"I'll Be There for You." --Friends theme song.

MICHAEL YANG
INTERNAL VP

Hometown: El Paso, TX
Major: Marketing
Year: 4th

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

My Cell Phone...holla!

What is your concept of a fruitful day?

A fruitful day in my eyes is where I can swim in a pool strawberries, whipped cream and cherries along with a whale ;)

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a room full of people, what would it be?

Drop it like it's Hot...self explanatory.

STEPHANIE QIN
EXTERNAL VP

Hometown: Frisco, TX
Major: BHP/MPA
Year: 3rd

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

Hmm, well there are lots of modern conveniences I couldn't live without. However, I do check my email a ridiculous amount of times per day, so I probably the internet and my gmail account. Gotta stay connected! =P

What is your concept of a fruitful day?

Even though the word "fruitful" implies being productive study-wise (to me), I think I would do the opposite. I would spend a day doing fun things I normally wouldn't have time for, like having a picnic on the six-pack with friends, exploring downtown Austin and it's quaint little shops, seeing the sunset on Mt. Bonnell. Relaxing stuff basically.

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a roomfull of people, what would it be?

"You Belong with Me" because it's my favorite Taylor Swift song. I just HAVE to sing along whenever it's played.

ANGELA HUANG
ADMINISTRATIVE VP

Hometown: Plano, TX
Major: BHP/Finance
Year: 2nd

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

My laptop! It's gigantic and heavy and will probably give me back problems, but I love it and carry it everywhere because I have my life and more on it.

THU DOAN
ACADEMIC VP

Hometown: Houston, TX
Major: Government/International Relations-Global Studies
Year: 3rd

What is one thing (modern convenience) you could not live without?

A "convenience" that I could not live without? Is that an oxymoron? Well, to answer your question, the toilet. I have squatted/stooped/peed in bushes plenty of times while traveling in Asia (and other places too) and, surely enough, I survived. I know a lot of people possess toilets and we use them everyday (how boring right?), but I doubt that there is anyone that appreciates this fine invention as much as me!

What is your concept of a fruitful day?

I consider a fruitful day as a day in which I have eaten lots of fruits.

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a room full of people, what would it be?

"Party in the USA" because I am just that great.

HENRY SHI
FINANCIAL VP

If you had a "theme song" that played whenever you walk into a room full of people, what would it be?

*clears his throat, raises his voice by an octave* "You're on the phone its a typical Tuesday night..." JK! Hm...good question...a room full of people eh? Lets see...something that is smooth, independent, with a hint of sappiness...I'm going to go with "Into the Night" by Chad Kroeger and Santana. A tad dramatic perhaps, but I do enjoy those bluesy guitar riffs.

NOURISHING LIVES

09/10/2009 | GSB 2.124

Molly Sun

ABSA had an amazing start once again this year due to our awesome sponsor General Mills! On Thursday, 9/10, in GSB 2.124, Curt Curtis and his awesome GM crew brought laughter to the ABSA crowd when they spat out jokes left and right.

With the amazing presentations about the GM culture, lifestyle, headquarters, and internship opportunities, every ABSA member—old and new—couldn't help but be engaged throughout the entire presentation. Not only that, GM brought out tons of goodies- Cheerios, brownies, Total Cereal, Chex Mix, and so much more. And finally, this was my personal favorite part: Curt said that ABSA is one of the best organizations to be a part of at the University of Texas campus.

The General Mills presentation was split into three parts with different speakers: Curt, Diana, and Grace. Curt first spoke about General Mills as a whole. We learned about the GM headquarters in Minneapolis, Minnesota. We also learned about the variety of products from GM, as well as some of their new products on the market.

Second, Diana Wang, who interned with GM this past summer, shared with us her experiences as an intern. Diana spoke about some of the projects she did, as well as how her typical days were like as an intern. Her convincing presentation really attracted the members to also intern with GM.

Finally, Grace Kim kicked it home with her presentation about the General Mills Campus Ambassador, which is an internship available for freshmen to apply to. She spoke about the role of the Ambassador, as well as the benefits that she gets from her position. All three sections of the presentation were very relevant to our members, and all three speakers were very personable and convincing. I'm certain that after this presentation, many of our ABSA members will be applying to General Mills!

ENERGY FOR TOMORROW

09/17/2009 | GSB 2.124

John Terada

On the Second ABSA General Meeting, ConocoPhillips—one of the largest integrated energy companies in the world—came to speak to new and old members. Our guest speakers were Marjorie Cheng and Daphne Andress, who were both ABSA members and officers when they were in college.

First, they provided a presentation about the company and the various services it provides. From there, Marjorie and Daphne asked questions to which ABSA members received prizes.

Then, they created a connection with the members through the pictures of ABSA in the 80s and shared stories of how each of them ran the organization in the past. This provided a great opportunity for new members to realize the growth of the organization from that time and the tremendous potential ABSA has on students' careers as well as personal and professional development.

From the interesting facts about the company to older pictures of ABSA, the ConocoPhillips GM definitely added a personal touch and lasting impact on students.

The third ABSA General Meeting took place on September 24, 2009. Every ABSA member was excited to find out their new family and the new directors for the year.

The newly appointed Family Director was announced right off the bat. It was none other than my sister, Shara Ma. She revealed to the whole organization that her family events this year were going to be based off of television game shows. This meeting's family event was based off of the game show Pyramid. Members got to pick from various categories that allowed the newly formed families to interact with each other and most importantly, to have loads of fun.

After the game everyone settled down and the 2009-2010 ABSA Directors were announced. The Executive, Professional, and External Directors were announced over a video their respective officers recorded the night before because they were taking an exam.

We met up with the missing officers at Five Guys for the first ABSA Benefit Night. So many members came out to the event that it seemed like the food line was never-ending. But knowing how good Five Guys' burgers are, the wait was definitely worth it. Members ate burgers, fries, and free peanuts while they got to know the members of their family even better over dinner. Overall, the night was full of much fun and excitement.

ONE WORLD

10/01/2009 | GSB 2.124

Sondra Batbold

We had our fourth General Meeting on Thursday, October 1st with representatives from American Airlines as our guest speakers. The two American Airlines representatives, Winston Lam and Brian Pokluda, presented a brief history of American Airlines, from its very formation to its expansion as the world's largest passenger airline.

AAdvantage program team leader, Winston Lam, spoke to us about AAdvantage's impressive record as the world's largest frequent flyer program. Winston noted some benefits of the program, ranging from privileges such as elite lounges, to the Transformers-like seats that turn into beds. Brian Pokluda then discussed American Airlines' membership in the OneWorld partnership that includes alliances with several other airlines around the world. The OneWorld partnership is beneficial not only to customers, who receive benefits from any member airline, but also to participating airlines by reducing costs through bulk ordering, sharing, and interline e-ticketing.

Brian and Winston both stated that it was truly the people at American Airlines that influenced them to join the company. However, they also admitted that being an employee of any airline corporation can make for some amazing travels.

At the conclusion of their presentation, Winston and Brian were both kind enough to stay around for questions. Their openness and passion for the airline industry must have been contagious because many ABSA members stayed to inquire more!

This general meeting was extra special because Marathon Oil was a new guest of ABSA. We were lucky to have a representative from one of the world's leading integrated energy companies come speak to us.

Marathon Oil is based in Houston, but has various operations all over the globe including the United Kingdom, Indonesia, and Norway.

Our guest speaker for the night, Greg Farris, was extremely knowledgeable and composed. You would never guess that it was his first visit! He introduced us to the four main focuses of the company—exploration and production, oil sands mining, integrated gas, and refining, marketing, and transportation. Judging by the number of questions throughout the presentation, it was clear that everyone was very interested in the energy industry.

I was impressed by Greg's familiarity with all the technical aspects of energy development, despite that his expertise lies in accounting research. I think this presentation was especially helpful for older members who have taken energy-specific courses and wish to pursue that track. Younger members also gained some insight on possible a career path they could consider.

After the presentation, some members chatted with Greg while others rushed to line up for food from Pizza Hut. Overall, the meeting was informative and ABSA definitely left a good impression with an enthusiastic attitude and intelligent questions. I think an ongoing relationship with Marathon Oil will be very valuable for our members.

BRAND NEW START

09/22/2009 | UTC 1.116

Grace Kim

Looking for opportunities to sharpen your leadership and communication skills? Want to expand your academic horizons? Seeking an internship your freshmen year? Many first year students would answer a resounding "yes" to these questions but have no idea how to go about making them a reality.

Start Fresh is an event specifically targeted towards freshmen with the goal of introducing them to the many opportunities available at UT. The diverse panel consisted of representatives from international organizations like AIESEC to our own ABSA members and officers who spoke about LeaderShape and the Bridging Disciplines Program. The event was a resounding success because it was beneficial to both old and new members alike. Upperclassmen got to reach out and meet new freshmen and were exposed to opportunities they did not know about before. The cupcakes from Polkadots, of course, were a huge hit and there were more than enough to spare.

Only in its second year, Start Fresh continues to provide quality information and introduce members to organizations, internships, and programs both within and outside the business school. We look forward for even better things to come!

There comes a time every semester when the business school comes abuzz with ambitious students wearing suits filtering in and out of the Ford Career Center. During those two weeks, recruiting activities fill the calendars of McCombs students, where they attend educational seminars to learn more about their career of choice.

One of which was ABSA Investment Team's first workshop on September 21, 2009 that gave a detailed account about finance related jobs.

One of the advantages of ABSA's Investment Team is its profound network of students and alumni who have experience working with prestigious financial firms. During the workshop, Frank Yang, a Summer Financial Analyst at Citigroup spoke about working in investment banking: the extensive amount of hours spent at the office, monetary gains, and hierarchy in the workplace. Imran Jivrani, an Investment Team alumnus, also worked at Citigroup this past summer in the Trading division. He related his account of the typical day as a trade analyst, whose hours are reasonably less than in investment banking. Next, Tarek Moussa talked about the pros and cons with a career in asset management. He also provided examples of several venture capital and private equity firms in Austin for ABSA members looking for internships. Finally, I relayed research and stock brokerages involved in starting a portfolio. I recommended reading newspapers, finance-related magazines, and useful stock tracking websites to better manage a portfolio. Later, during the discussion session, many students asked clarifying questions about the above sectors in the finance industry.

As ABSA students trekked out of the UTC room and into the small showers of Austin, they spoke of the knowledge they gained at the workshop. While landing that dream full-time job was still a few weeks (for some years) away, they knew more about a career in finance, human resources to refer to, and investment management.

PREPPING FOR SUCCESS

10/03/2009 | West Lake Austin

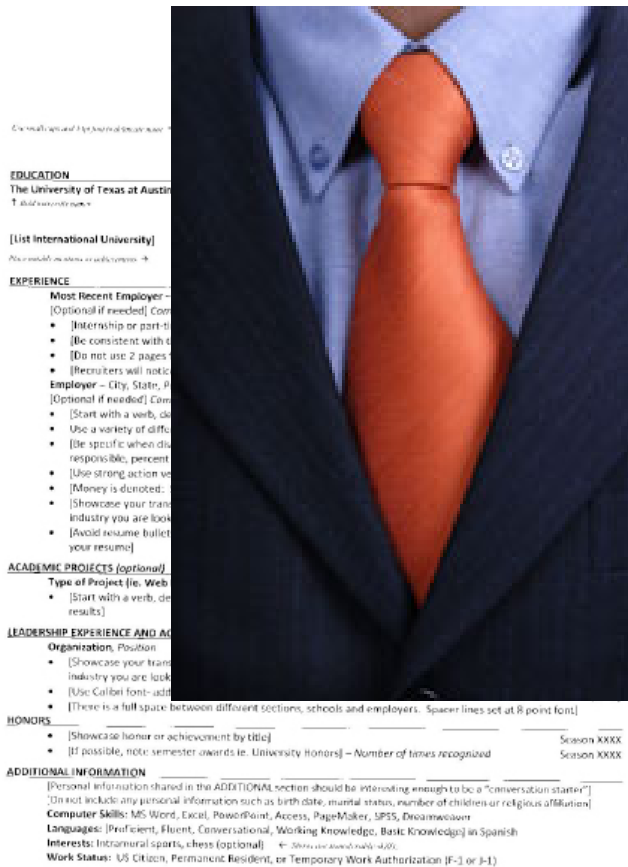

Molly Sun

The first ever ABSA Career Prep Session took place at 7PM on September 8th in GSB 2.122. There were two purposes to this event: 1) Preparing the ABSA underclassmen for the BBA Career Expo the following day as well as their future career events. 2) Allowing the older and younger members of ABSA to have more one-on-one interactions/bonding time.

The ABSA Career Prep Session had 5 sections in total: resume tips, 30-second introductions, dress etiquette, networking skills, and one-on-one resume audits. 20 Upperclassmen showed up and presented the first 4 sections based on their own experiences from the past. Each upperclassman gave valuable tips, such as how to continue your relationships with company employees, how to dress appropriately to interviews and career fairs, and how to introduce yourself and carry on a conversation at career fairs. Many of the underclassmen listened attentively and took notes. In the remaining 15 minutes of the session, many upperclassmen did resume audit for the younger members. For example, they helped the younger members find the best verbs to use to "fluff" up their resumes and corrected the formatting of the resumes.

For the freshmen this year, there is a new resume layout, so being a part of this career prep session was very beneficial to them.

For me, the best part of this event was seeing the interaction between our older and younger members. The older members of ABSA really care about the professional success of the newer members. They want to help them succeed in their career path, and they are willing to share whatever they have learned to the younger members. This was a great way to start off the new school year. A huge thanks to all the older ABSA members for making this event a success!

KEEP IT COOL

09/23/2009 | South Mall

It was hot. It was humid. It was wet.

Our Beat the Heat picnic marked the first major social event of the year! We had an amazing turnout with lots of interested ABSA members.

We began the event with a water-balloon toss game where many of our members tied on their final tosses. Then we jumped right into an all-out, no holds barred water-balloon fight. People took cover as much as they could, but no matter where they were, they got splashed (some more than others). Many of us were completely drenched after the fight and still continued to soak others by dumping ice cold buckets of water on one another! There were buckets of water flying and water balloons crashing down on everyone. The officers were targeted the most (especially President Tim).

We then ended the day by eating ice cold ice cream and had some drinks to cool off. Although it was steaming and hot outside, the ice cream was cool enough to keep its solidity while the melted flavor made it mouth-watering to eat.

All in all it was a great event and an even better time for members to get to know one another. Until next year and until the next water balloon fight comes around, keep it cool ABSA.

I'M ON A BOAT

The beginning of fall 2009 had an amazing kickoff with plenty of social events for new members to attend for free and for old members to meet and greet everyone! (I'm on a) Boat Party was the last social event on Sunday, September 6th. What a fabulous way to end Labor Day weekend with ABSA!

Before getting on the boat, we chilled at the picnic area eating pizza, pasta, and double chocolate cake while mingling with everyone. There must have been 60 or so members, old and new, who came out that afternoon! By 6:25PM, we all headed towards the boat, which was huge! Everyone was having a fun time whether they were talking, taking random pictures, or meeting new people.

I almost forgot the best part of the whole trip...we got to JUMP off the boat or SLIDE down or simply go down the ledge. My experience was interesting. For a member that can't swim, there were many that were willing to give a hand, help me put on a life jacket (the wrong way!), and to push me back up to the boat! Thanks to Sandy, An, Cici, and anyone else who had helped me that day!!!

Many members ended the night by singing all sort of songs at the top of the boat and others talked the night away. It was an amazing social event that ABSA has put on and I believe it was one that kept me in ABSA this semester!

CAMPING ROCKS

09/18/2009 | Pace Bend Park

This was my first time camping, and it turned out to be the most memorable experience. One of the best things about camping was that all the participants were able to make friends with one another. In fact, the whole point of the camping was not only for old members to strengthen their relationships with one another, but also for new members to introduce themselves to ABSA.

The eight officers designed creative bonding games. The one that involved everyone was very entertaining. All the participants surrounded the camp fire and were assigned to twelve different groups based on the month they were born. Then the Internal

Vice President Michael Yang gave one word to every group and they had to sing a song together that included the word given. The whole game was filled with laughter and joy.

The other game we played was called "Mafia". I never played this game before, but I was confident to challenge anyone at the end of the night. It was really fun to see people argue with one another because of their surprised facial expressions and their out of the box logic.

While people were having a great time making friends, officers and members cooked delicious barbeque. I was worried whether there would be enough food supplied for all the 100 or so participants. However, when the tasty hot dogs and cheese steak burgers were served, all my concerns were gone. Furthermore, most of the participants chose to play bonding games instead of going to bed. I love camping.

I felt so fulfilled by the end of the camping because of the number of new friends I made through bonding games, and the huge amount of food that was supplied. My first camping experience turned out to be the best- ABSA rocks.

ABSA GIVES BACK

09/26/2009 | Capital Area Food Bank

Stephanie Qin

ABSA's first volunteering event for the year was at the Capital Area Food Bank of Austin! I was actually at UBC's informal retreat the night before, but I left early (because who wants to miss an external volunteering event? Not me!). Anyways, I arrived on campus at 7:50AM and to my surprise, I saw that the entire Littlefield Fountain was blocked off because ESPN had its game day broadcast. So we ended up meeting at Dobie for rides instead.

We were assigned to help out in the product recovery area of the food bank. Rachael, the CAFB coordinator, instructed us on our responsibilities for that morning. We were assigned Box 13s, which were mystery boxes from HEB filled with random extra products from their store. Our job was to go through each box and take a product, scratch out the barcode, and repair the packaging. Then, we put the product into sorting bins. We had quite a system going, with some people marking product barcodes, some repairing products, and some sorting products into bins. That's ABSA efficiency for you! Most of the boxes contained normal stuff, like shampoo, baby diapers, and etc. However, one lucky member, Ken Nguyen, was able to find feminine products in every box he opened.

After our break, we were instructed to take the household products bin and put the products from it into smaller boxes, making sure they each weighed 25 lbs with a standard deviation of  $\pm 1$  (sorry, too much STA371 on the brain). It was quite a challenge. It was like Tetris with weight as a third dimension.

When our shift was done, Rachael gave us a certificate which stated that ABSA processed 2,025 lbs of non-food grocery products! That's a ton of stuff! (Pun totally intended). Also, it turns out that CAFB had Coca-Cola sponsor the volunteer day, so they provided us with pizza for lunch! Yum! Thank you to everyone who came out to the food bank that Saturday morning to volunteer!

On September 30th, a few of the older members, meaning one year or older, went to Trudy's and enjoyed some FREE appetizers. As a fourth year member, I really enjoyed this retreat especially the fact that we got to EAT FOR FREE!!! It was a good amount of old members even though I felt pretty old. It went fantastic!

At my table we mingled, ordered two huge plates of food, and of course ATE until our stomachs were FULL! So if you want FREE food make sure to stick with ABSA, because not only are we the BEST organization, but also we get FOOD all the time :).

ABSA and UBC joined forces to volunteer for Habitat for Humanity on Saturday, October 3rd, (which coincidentally was ACL weekend). Emily Benigno (from UBC) and I had planned this event since the summer, so we were really excited for this day!

wood with extra nails! While this was going on, others were working at the house. A bulldozer knocked a wall down and volunteers were cleaning the area up. During a break, we went inside the house and saw how gorgeous the view was! It was the perfect photo opportunity!

The volunteers in the morning shift woke up bright and early and met at Littlefield Fountain at 7AM. Introductions were made between UBC and ABSA members and then we got into cars and drove over to the site. As we drew closer to our destination, I noticed that the houses around us got nicer and bigger. I thought we had gotten lost, but it turns out we were actually assigned to deconstruct a $1.7 million house! The materials were going to be taken to the Re-Store and used for constructing Habitat houses.

Right as the second shift arrived I felt some drops of rain which steadily grew to a heavy pour. The site lead came and told us that there was a 90% chance of rain for the rest of the day, so unfortunately, the rest of the workday was cancelled. However, some of us decided to go to IHOP instead. Yum! We had some delish brunch, and for me, chocolate chip pancakes! So it was a good end to our day with Habitat. Thank you to everyone for coming out!

Our first responsibilities included moving piles of lumber to a truck. Then, some of us denailed and destapled lumber, while others assisted with the deconstruction of a stone wall. It was hard to choose, so I decided to take pictures. However, I saw the nail gun and had the urge to try it out. The denailer gun shot pressurized air to the nail bottom and shot it straight out of the wood. It was like magic. This job was so fun that I started looking for

CLEAN & BEAUTIFY

10/10/2009 | Guadalupe Street

Diana Meng

On a cloudy October morning, ABSA members gathered once again to continue its volunteering tradition: Keep Austin Beautiful. Usually the first event to kick start ABSA's philanthropic season each year, KAB #1 was rescheduled from September 19 to October 10 due to rainy weather. Nonetheless, this did not discourage members from signing up again and showing up on an early Saturday morning.

Ready to rid our streets of trash and filth, we split into two groups and made our way on each side of the street from 30th to 38th Street on Guadalupe. Equipped with gloves, trash bags, and litter pick-up tools, ABSA volunteers made sure that no trash was safe from our sight, from soggy fast food litter to countless cigarette butts. Determined members with litter pick-up tools were eager to pick up anything that resembled trash, so much so that volunteers in the front of the group frequently left nothing for the rest of us. Members who held open heavier and heavier trash bags happily accepted without complaint all trash that came their way. Excellent teamwork was displayed when it took five members using litter pick-up tools to pick up a black ceramic plate and successfully deposit it into the trash bag. Although it might have been much easier and less precarious for just one person to dispose of the plate using his or her hands, ABSA volunteers showed that success is sweetest when shared with a team!

Within an hour, we soon found ourselves at 38th Street, eager to dispose of our trash bags at the nearby dumpster. But before we threw away the evidence of our hard work, the two groups joined back together to take our traditional KAB group picture with six full trash bags piled in the front and the ABSA KAB street sign in the back. After another successful and rewarding volunteering event, we headed back to campus for lunch and enjoyed the rest of our Saturday. With KAB #1 concluded, we look forward to the next two KABs of the semester to keep our streets as clean as we left it!

1) If you could be a character in a movie, what would you be? Why?

Keanu Reeves from.. Doesn't really matter, he plays the same character in every movie..- He can be high and no one will know the difference. Did you guys know that he is half Asian? Unlike Tiger Woods, the collective Asian community do not to claim him.

2) If you have $50 million, how would you spend it?

Start by buying a house for myself as well as a house for my mom, because ballers don't live with their mamas. Then I plan to buy a boat. Like a real boat. Not one of those crappy Vietnamese boats that are powered by children paddlers. But a real boat that has a motor and stuff. Invite girls to sail with me, but when it starts raining I crawl into the cabin but she has to stay outside on the deck. She will probably ask why and all I tell her is... "you see any room in this cabin? this ain't no yacht, we on a regular a** boat!"

Start buying real crab meat because I'm rich now. I would eat lobster and crabs everyday. I won't hold back on luxuries. I plan to bathe in expensive wine from France. Eat those square watermelons from Japan. Buy high end moth balls from China. Import a little Vietnamese kid to do my laundry, but not my good laundry... you can't trust those rascals.

Probably live out my life normally after those initial purchases. I plan to get married and have the dinner reception at Kim Son. Buy my wife a BMW 3 series, low-end Mercedes, or a minivan. Hang a Buddha and a hello kitty on the rear view mirror. Go to Hong Kong City Mall like every Sunday. Eat dim sum at Fung's Kitchen. Attend community rallies to complain about stuff, but not do anything about it because I don't know any Asians that actually vote. Make my children learn Vietnamese so they can understand when their grandparents talk bad about them. Act like I don't speak English when Mormons or Jehovah's Witnesses come by. But then get blind sided when the white Mormon guys start speaking Vietnamese.

3) If you would get a tattoo, what tattoo would you get?

An Ed Hardy designed tattoo of a lion humping a dragon on a skateboard. The tattoo will run down the right side of my neck. I want the world and interviewers to know that I never want to be able to get a job ever again.

4) If you would eat one fast food item every single day, what would you eat?

Hai Ky combination fried rice. The fried rice is really authentic. You can taste like 100 years of chinese culture in the dish. A little bit of soy sauce, vinegar, and a lot of Mmm So Good in every bite. Just make sure you ask for extra meat, sometimes the cooks will be really stingy with the shrimp. Gotta ask for the big shrimps, when the cooks give you the small shrimp he is telling you that he thinks you have a small wiener. Gotta defend your honor.

For the 2009 season, everyone's expectations for the ABSA men's football team were through the roof. A large number of players from last year's playoff team returned for another season after making it to the semifinals in 2008. However, the combination of the departure of several key players, some key injuries, and lack of chemistry with new players would pose a difficult challenge for ABSA to overcome.

In the first game, an abundance of mistakes occurred all over the field. The defense, which had been the foundation of the team the previous year, was now inconsistent. In spite of all of the errors that were made, the victory was always within reach. Unfortunately for ABSA, things did not fall into place in the last few minutes of the game, and the men's team fell to 0-1.

During the next game, the team showed flashes of the potential that everyone knew was there all along. The team dominated from the start, and the ABSA men cruised to a 19-6 victory to bring its record to 1-1.

With one loss already, ABSA could ill afford to lose another game. The third opponent ran a steady dose of option runs, short passes, and bootlegs to keep the ABSA defense on its heels. The men battled hard and scored the first touchdown allowed by the other team this season, but it was not enough. ABSA lost 6-19 and fell to a 1-2 record, leaving the men with a bleak playoff outlook.

However, the men never gave up hope. The final regular season game was a shootout, and ABSA came out on top 24-20. With one team getting bumped up, it looks like the men will make it into the playoffs after a rough start. It has certainly been a season of ups and downs, but in the end the efforts of ABSA's men's team seem to have paid off.

In spite of the scores, mistakes, and losses, the season has not been a waste. The chance for the players to bond and develop together has been invaluable. The team is full of seniors who have gladly given up hours of their time to practice on weekends and play on weeknights. It is this dedication and passion combined with the opportunity to shine on the field that makes the game so enjoyable. I would like to say a last thank you to all of the players for their hard work, and last but not least a final cheer for the efforts of the ABSA men's IM football team: ONE-TWO-THREE, ABSA!

DOMINATING THE FIELD

September & October of 2009 | UT Intramural Field

Grace Kim

It's like the scene from Armageddon: intimidating men and women wearing matching ABSA t-shirts sauntering down the field, confident in our ability to dominate the other team. Thanks to weekly practices on Sunday mornings at Clark Field, our team has a great shot at making play-offs this year. Under the supervision of David Chen and Michael Yang, the coed team practiced running drills, learned plays, and unified under our single desire to win.

The first game against Freshmen Business Association brought out a mass of fans to support the team. We had more than enough girls to switch off on offense and defense. Christina Ma, Erica Liang, and Kristen Baldwin made some spectacular catches that ensured us an easy victory. The next win against the "Untouchables" was a much closer game. We had our nail-biting moments, especially when our ball got intercepted by the opposing team. However, we managed to, once again, snatch triumph from the claws of defeat. Our third game was during midterm week, and against our long-term rival, Hispanic Business Students Association. Our initial fear of having a shortage of girls to play was put to rest by the appearance of our much needed player, Tiffany Kuo. Though we only had four girls to play both halves of the game, the encouragement from the fans and other players kept everyone pumped and motivated. Though the players reeked of sweat and grass by the end of the game, our huddle ended in cheers and high-fives to celebrate yet another victory.

The next few practices and games were cancelled due to adverse weather conditions, but that just means the team is itching for another challenge. Playoffs, here we come!
